The diversity of our world: Where does it come from, where can it be found, and how do we meet it?

Creative hands-on stations invite you to dive into the world of diversity, enjoy it, and participate in its creation. Go to the changing room in the fashion boutique, embark on a thought-journey in the suitcase shop, or listen to stories about home in the lamp shop.

1, 2, 3, Kultummel means time for new diversity!

Great learning fun for families, nursery schools, day-care and schools

At the Labyrinth Children’s Museum Berlin, it is not the objects which are in focus, but the children with their creativity, their ideas and their individual strengths. The best way for children to get to know the world, its diversity, its people and its stories is when they discover this world for themselves – together, actively, joyfully and playfully.

Playing is learning – at all ages

Younger and older children benefit from age-appropriate activities. This is why we tailor group appointments to their individual needs. We offer differentiated worksheets for school children and kids from after-school care, particular games and activities for younger children and kids from day care centres, and we offer a large variety of creative activities for all ages. Our hands-on exhibitions for girls and boys aged 3 to 11 years stand out for their attentive multilingual staff members and the exhibition design which has won several awards.
